NEW YORK HIPPODROME

This week's change of bill at the New York Hippodrome the world's largest playhouse, brings into prominence a revival of ten of the most popular musical numbers rendered in that theatre in the last decade. These numbers are sung by the Hippodrome quartet and choros in costume assisted by the Symphony Orchestra. Several of the numbers are given with elaborate electrical effects one of which makes grotesque faces and which is apparently set high in the sky.

The big feature photoplay shown at the Hippodrome this week is "The Road to Happiness" which is now being presented for the first time with Holbrook Blinn as Albee Brady in the leading roles. This is a stirring photo drama made from Edward Sheldon's famous play which was presented several years ago at the Astor Theatre with Mr. Blinn in the principal role. It tells the story of the rise to political and financial power of a former prize fighter and of his struggle to win the love of a renowned young woman whom he marries.

Another feature is the presentation of a daily news film showing events in connection with the visit to New York Harbor of the Atlantic fleet. This release is changed daily and is strictly up to the second. This is shown in addition to the Mutual Week film. There is also a Charles Chaplin film and a travel picture.

Other items on the diversified programme includes an entirely new series of living pictures posed by the beautiful Hippodrome models, vocal solos by Master Richard Neeley, the phenomenal boy soprano and a water spectacle which utilizes the enormous tank which has always been one of the most distinctive features of this vast amusement institution. There are also the customary symphony concerts by the symphonic orchestra.

HER ONLY OBJECTION

He Was Not Only Acceptable, but Too Good for Her Daughter

He was golden up regardless, as he walked into the private office of the leading woman suffragist, Hasting and being his hand on his heart, he said earnestly:

"Madam, I have come to ask from you the hand of your fair daughter, for she tells me that she has the right to accept me without your consent but we both feel that as a matter of courtesy to you your blessing should be obtained."

"Have you your eugenic certificate?" "Right here, madam. Think you will find it correct in every particular."

"And your financial rating?" "These papers give a list of my holdings, together with my references from leading bankers."

"Ah, yes. And your pedigree?" "Is in this chart. That red spot in the center, about half-way along, is where Adam fell."

"Seems correct. Will you walk back and forth, easily and naturally, for a few moments?"

"Certainly, madam."

"Ah! That will do. And now young man, you wish to have my decision?"

"If you please."

"My daughter has made the mistake of her life. She can never marry you."

"But why, madam?"

"Well, if you must know, I've decided to take you myself."—Life.

Not Grocer's Duty

But the grinding or pulverizing is none of the grocer's business. You must look to that, for it the grocer does the grinding you lose the strength for it evaporates into some of that tempting odor that follows the package on its way from the grocer's to your coffee pot. Coffee ought to be ground the minute before using for making the infusion, and there are any number of coffee grinders to be bought that will produce pulverized coffee without any more work than is required to grind it coarsely.

After saying a great many things that sound scientific but not understandable to the average housewife the National Coffee Roasters' Association comes to the conclusion that the method known as filtration is the best means of making coffee. This is the method used in a coffee percolator and in many patented coffee pots where the infusion is made by letting boiling water pass over the pulverized coffee bean.

The idea is to get as little caffeine, which is the name of the injurious substance in coffee and as much of the flavor and characteristic taste as possible. And this method accomplishes these things. The old method of putting cold water on the coffee grounds and then letting the coffee mixture come to a boiling point has its advantages, and if quickly done it used to produce good results, but it has the disadvantage of extracting a great deal of caffeine from the bean and something of the bitter taste that is not present in filtration method.

Mark Twain's Hearty Mea

"When I was a little girl I had the honor of being introduced to Mark Twain. It was just before Thanksgiving and I very proudly told him that I was going to spend the holiday with my aunt in New York.

"Really?" he drawled, with the most flattering show of interest. "Well, I hope you will feel, after dinner, just as I did when I went there to a banquet a few months ago."

"Of course I instantly demanded to know, 'How was that?'"

"Very thankful," answered Mr. Clemens with preternatural solemnity. "Very very thankful because still had one article of apparel that wasn't too tight a fit for comfort."

"O I know" I guessed eagerly; your

THEATRICAL TOPICS

Scene from "The Road to Happiness" at Portsmouth Theatre Tonight

"THE ROAD TO HAPPINESS"

William Hodge's latest footlight character—that of young Jim Whitman in "The Road to Happiness"—is always spoken of by Hodge himself as "a sort of younger brother" of Daniel Voorhees Pike, the "Man From Home." Says this unique footlight creator of both these roles: "Whitman is what Pike might have been back in Kokomo, Ind., while he was studying law. This play shows Whitman at the outset as a village jack-of-all-trades, struggling with his law studies by the light of the kerosene lamp. The last leaves him painting his first law shingle." Only Whitman has a love romance of his own and wins his sweetheart by as much pluck and humor as Pike evinced in his invasion of foreign aristocracy. Hodge's "making-up" is a strikingly youthful illusion. He seems to be just out of his teens. This popular actor, who delighted Chicago a whole year in his part and Boston for half a year, will return in this delightful "comedy of cheerfulness" to the Portsmouth Theatre Wednesday, May 12.

BOWLING

The Rochester team and a team composed of picked bowlers of this city rolled a matched game last night at the Arcade alleys, splitting even on points. The two first strings were won by the Rochester team, Portsmouth taking the third and total pinfall. The only man rolling 300 or over was Wilson of Portsmouth who knocked the pins for 301. Young of Rochester was a close second with 299. The summary:

TO OBSERVE HUMANE SUNDAY

Humane Sunday will be observed May 23 and the American Humane Association has urged that clergymen generally throughout the country devote a special sermon or service to observance of work of humanity. Special committees have been organized in 42 states of the Union, with numerous sub-committees to assist in promoting the move. Clergymen are asked to kindly lend their assistance in this annual observance.

The scope of this association is wide and the report last year shows 239,527 children and 2,844,721 animals cared for by anti-cruelty societies in the United States.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL PRAISES WILSON'S SPEECH

Paid High Tribute to President in Address to K. of C. Delegates

Cardinal O'Connell paid a remarkable tribute to President Wilson in an address to more than 200 delegates to the annual session of the Knights of Columbus today. The Cardinal's address was given in St. Cecilia's Church, Back Bay. A solemn high mass preceded the business session at the Hotel Somerset.

The cardinal said in part: "I have just finished reading the address of the President of the United States delivered at Philadelphia, and that address ought to be read in ringing tones at your convention and at the meetings of every organization in America. Here is an expression of sentiment so sublime in tone and lofty in human sentiment which only makes our love of America greater because it founds itself on the national love of every human heart for justice and truth and eliminates sectional jealousy and discord."

"It is the expression of a noble heart and truly illuminated mind. It is sublimely catholic and national. God bless our calm noble and high-minded President."

Cardinal O'Connell also gave words of advice to the delegates and said in conclusion:

"God and Country: that is our watchword. Be faithful to it and God's blessing will be upon you."

The remainder of the cardinal's address was as follows:

"You do well, sir, tonight to gather here this morning to ask God's light and assistance in the deliberations which you are to take in your annual convention. "The character and quality of your association has grown to be one of immense importance in many ways. Who is put in charge of your body, who guides its action and controls its destiny is no trivial affair. It is fraught with immense possibilities of good or evil and, therefore, must be a matter of great concern not to you only but to all the community. For there can be no doubt that the character and trend of the leaders beget imitation in the ranks. Either they stimulate to new energies, arouse to higher ideals, quicken to better accomplishments of duties, or they allow indifference and decadence to sap the pristine vigor of the organization."

"Either they are eager to listen and follow high and spiritual counsel or they go their own way in folly."

"Surely such a choice cannot be a matter of indifference either to you or me—to what you represent or what I represent. In the past your path has been well chosen. We feel confident that you realize too well your responsibility to take risks. There are many signs which give evidence that your importance in the community is growing—you have done a larger good and you have become a target for evil darts. You have no need now to be reminded that just in proportion to your fidelity to the purposes and ideal of your order you must be prepared to encounter antagonism and suspicion."

"It is only the men and measures which succeed that are bound to meet openly and antagonism. So you may congratulate yourselves that at last you have become important enough, active enough, successful enough, to be worthy of calumny."

"When an organization is innocent of evil, and intent only on good, opposition, far from hurting it, only strengthens it.

PLANS MADE FOR LARGER GOLD FUND

Washington, May 11—The Federal Reserve Board today made public a circular explaining details of its plan for a gold fund in Washington to take care of clearances between the Federal Reserve Banks. The circular shows that each of the twelve reserve banks must forward to the Treasury a sub-treasury $1,000,000 in gold or gold certificates as its part of the clearing fund, and in addition an amount "at least equal to its net indebtedness to all Federal Reserve Banks." Each bank must thereafter maintain a balance in the fund of at least $1,000,000 which will be kept in a separate vault in the Treasury Department. A settling agent to keep the necessary records will be appointed by the board. At the close of business each Wednesday night, each Federal Reserve Bank is required to telegraph to the board the amounts due to each other Federal Reserve Bank, and on each Thursday the settling agent will telegraph each bank the condition of its balance as a result of that week's adjustment. When a debit balance against a Federal Reserve Bank exceeds its credit balance, the difference must be immediately made good, and where there is any delay in covering such deficit the bank will be subject to such charges as the Federal Reserve Board may impose.

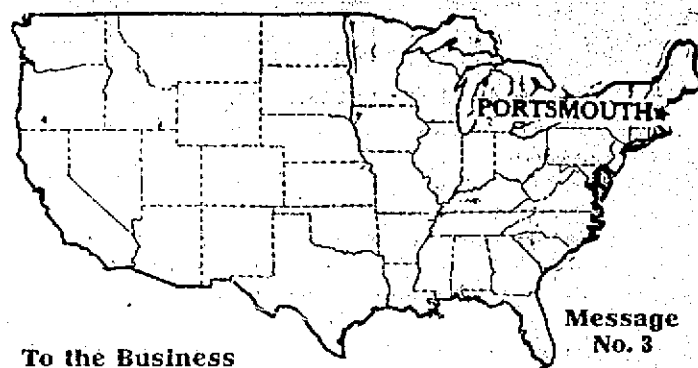

Funds standing to the credit of Federal Reserve Banks in this gold fund will be counted as part of their legal reserves.

DRINK BILL GOING AHEAD

London, May 11—The House of Commons last evening passed the second reading of Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George's bill to amend the Defence of the Realm Act. The bill originally was designed to place a heavy curfew on wines, spirits and beer, but under pressure from the Irish party its provisions were amended to giving the Government control of the sale in "liquor areas" where munitions of war are manufactured. The bill provides a central committee for England and Scotland. It will act on the recommendation of local committees of employers and workers, in the districts affected. Mr. Lloyd George has promised to appoint a committee to inquire into the charges of drunkenness among workmen, and all parties, including the Laborites, have expressed their satisfaction with the bill. The bill will absolutely control the sale of liquor in selected districts, including that frequented in clubs and grocery stores. A committee under the chairmanship of Lord Dunsford will deal with the question of compensation to the liquor dealers for their losses.

To the Business Men of Portsmouth

Business fights shy of dead towns. A sure sign of a dead one is the lack of local pride. People who live in a live, prosperous town show it. Their stores are attractive, their streets clean, their homes are well painted.

Nothing shows a lack of pride, a lack of prosperity, like paint-hungry buildings. Let's paint up. As the most durable and economical paint, we recommend

Used by other cars—Yes! —but not in a Studebaker

Semi-floating Rear Axle

Dangerous in that the axle shaft not only has to turn the wheels but also carries the weight of the car and takes up the shocks. Does EXTRA work and endangers the shaft. In place of it, Studebaker has a FULL-floating Rear Axle which carries the car on the axle housing, has TWO roller bearings in EACH hub to take up side-thrusts and leaves the shaft itself free merely to turn the wheels. Safe in any road at any speed. Secure your car from axle trouble.

High-Tension Magneto

An engine can't run a light on a wagon—and not a good fire—doesn't give the hot spark at slow motor speeds which the hottest spark is needed. In place of the back-magnet magneto, Studebaker uses a high-tension magneto, the most of the other high-tension cars. Doesn't vary with the motor's speed—always delivers full ignition energy. Insures SILENT, steady firing.

Thermo-syphon Cooling System

Requires so much larger a volume of water that radiator, water-jackets and header have to be much larger and HEAVIER. Operates well only when system is FULL. In place of it, Studebaker uses a Forced-circulation system that allows the lightest cooling system possible, but guarantees thorough and efficient cooling always. Be sure your car has the same "THERMO-SYMPHON" system of cooling.

Drive Thro' Springs

Makes it necessary to use stiffer springs. Hence, car becomes HARD-riding. Also, disturbs alignment of drive when car hits a stone or deep rut. In place of it, Studebaker has "V" radius rods and torque arm which relieve springs altogether and free them for the one task of cushioning bumps and jars. Be sure your car drives thro' radius rods and a torque arm. It means riding COMFORT.

Pressure or Suction Gasoline Systems

Trouble some—liable to leak air with such long lines of piping. Studebaker places tank in back—pumps it "over to fill." And shortens line of piping to cut weight from eight feet to eighteen inches. Gives CURB fuel on any grade.

Cylinders Cast Singly

Makes motor much HEAVIER—calls for HEAVY-ER crankcase to preserve alignment. Cuts down water cooling surfaces. Studebaker uses a motor cast in bloc which gives extreme rigidity, more effective cooling, lighter weight and more accessible design.

Studebaker ROADSTER . . . $ 985
Studebaker LIGHT SIX . . . 1385
Studebaker SIX (7-passenger) . . . 1450
F. O. B. Detroit

And the reason is simply that Studebaker doesn't dare to. For those designs lifted over on the side are "old-timers" in engineering. They aren't the new ideas in building a car. Long ago they gave place to BETTER designs. And while other manufacturers may cling to them, because they don't care to go to the manufacturing expense that extensive changes in design incur—Studebaker CAN'T.

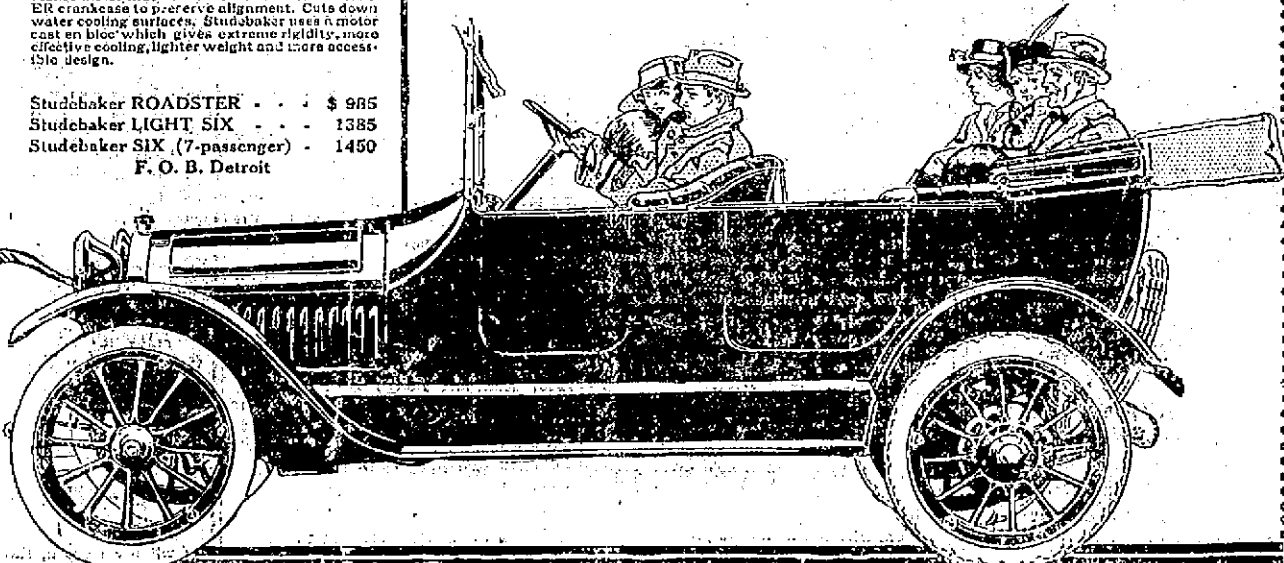

For, you see, when a man comes to look at a Studebaker, he EXPECTS quality. Price is rarely the attraction. He has in mind the QUALITY, the ideals in manufacturing that name of Studebaker has stood for so long. He expects a reasonable price—yes! For he knows that Studebaker is one of the largest organizations in existence devoted to the building of cars. And in a series of plants that have a capacity of 1000 cars a week, it is only natural to expect low manufacturing costs—and therefore, low prices.

But first of all, he looks for QUALITY. And Studebaker, of course, couldn't afford to have a man find a semi-floating rear axle in this FOUR, when everybody knows that type of axle has long since given place to the SAFER, more accessible FULL-floating Rear Axle. Couldn't afford, for example, to have him find drive thro' the springs—when GOOD design calls for drive thro' radius rods so as to free the springs from all possible strains. And so with every detail. IT HAS to be the highest quality and the latest design that is approved by engineers. And so the things listed at the side, you WON'T find in a Studebaker—

because it's a

The Public Market.

The disposition of people nowadays to switch from one idea to another is illustrated by an agitation in Cincinnati for the abolition of the public markets in that city, where they have been in operation for many years. This seems strange at a time when the public market idea is being pushed to the front in so many cities, and indicates that there may be two sides to the question.

Among the arguments advanced against public markets in Cincinnati are that they take up room that could be more profitably used in other ways, that they are unsightly and also unsanitary. One of the Cincinnati papers speaks of the "garbage and rubbish which constitute a nuisance and a menace to the public health," and which "are not pleasing to any of the senses." It also contends that the ground occupied by these markets would be productive of large income if covered with buildings, and that the bargains obtained by poor people near the close of a day's trading hardly offset the general disadvantages of the public markets. It calls attention to the fact that private markets are located on first floors or in basements and that good revenues are obtained from the stories above, while the public market uses the ground entirely. This it considered something of an extravagance in a city where building space is scarce and valuable, and it will have to be admitted that there is some force in that contention.

Without doubt the value of the public market as a means of reducing the cost of living has been overestimated, for the reason that no large city can draw any considerable proportion of its living from the territory to which these markets are available. For the great bulk of what the people of any large city eat shipments by rail and water must be depended upon.

Nevertheless, the public market has its benefits and there would seem to be no good reason why it should not be established and maintained wherever the scheme is feasible. Let no one imagine that it will make living cheap, for it will not, but as a means of bringing producer and consumer together it serves a useful purpose and may well be encouraged wherever there is a good opening for such an institution.

To pronounce the public market unsanitary and a nuisance is to condemn the authorities of the city. There is no reason why the public market should not be as thoroughly regulated as any other. The public market idea has not yet been fully worked out, and until it is it will be too early to pass final judgment.

Ex-President Taft and many governors and other leading men of the country manifest the right spirit in connection with the Lusitania horror when they refrain from embarrassing President Wilson with their opinions as to the course of action to be pursued. They appreciate the gravity of the situation and the mighty anxiety and responsibilities of the head of the nation, and their course is prompted by the highest citizenship and the loftiest patriotism.

Many states are to be quarantined against the spread of the chestnut blight, which has become very serious in the last few years. Anything that can be done to stave the progress of this destructive tree disease is entirely justifiable. The loss of the chestnut timber of the country could be a very serious matter, and tree owners and government forces should stand shoulder to shoulder in the attempt to prevent such a disaster.

The motion picture camera men have reached the front in the European war and before long scenes of battles with all their horrors will be laid before public audiences in this country. It will not be the most healthful entertainment that could be provided, but "enterprize" is on deck and it has got to come. All would be better off without it, and especially the juvenile portion of the community.

The dyestuff bugaboo is rapidly fading away if not entirely gone. American chemists have developed dyes that will answer every practical purpose, and the American people should be willing to wear goods not only made in America, but colored with dyes made in America.

At least it will have to be admitted that the warning Germany sent out against embarking on the Lusitania was something more than a "scrap of paper."

Just now it does not look as if the Women's Peace Congress would be able to stop the war.

Captain Turner of Lusitania Tells of Sighting Torpedoes.

Two torpedoes were fired at the Lusitania. When they struck a German submarine rose to the surface and dived again almost at once. The havoc was due entirely to torpedoes and not to ammunition or infernal machines in the hold of the ship. These were the positive assertions of Captain W. T. Turner of the sunken liner, who is shown in the accompanying illustration. It was the first statement the captain made. "I kept to the middle channel, following orders received from the admiralty," he said. "From the bridge I saw a torpedo coming on my way, and I tried to change the ship's course in time to avoid it. The second torpedo followed almost immediately. The second struck right over the boilers, crippling the engines. For this reason it was impossible to beach the Lusitania. I did not order the lifeboats out sooner because it was foolish to try to get them into the water before the Lusitania lost all headway. Otherwise they would have been swamped. It was cold blooded murder, nothing else. All talk of an internal explosion is foolish. Had there been high explosives or any amount of ammunition in the hold the liner would have been blown to bits instead of sinking as she did. There had been no reason for running under forced draft. That is why we were not at full speed. I saw the submarine again. I was in the water four hours, and while I was swimming I saw the craft rise and the wreckage and dive again. Others saw it even better than I did."

OPERA COMPANY IN BANKRUPTCY

Boston Opera Company Files Petition With the Court.

The Boston Opera Company, which has produced grand opera in Boston for six seasons, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today.

The liabilities were placed at $216,000 and the assets at $75,000. The principal creditor is Eben D. Jordan, who organized the company and whose claim is $70,000, and the same amount is owed to the musicians of the orchestra.

Among other creditors are the Societe Anglo-Americaenne d'Opera, Paris, $17,000; and Henry Russell, managing director, $15,000. No opera was given by the company last winter.

BIG FREIGHT.

Locomotive Moves 71 Cars Between Boston and Dover.

The longest freight train hauled on the Boston and Maine railroad was moved over the western route of the Portland division from Boston to Dover on Monday. The freight, No. 241, was made up of 71 cars, with 1863 tons of various merchandise. The locomotive hauling the train was number 2637, one of the consolidation type and considering the heavy train it dragged, made an excellent run between the points named. At Dover ten cars were dropped and the first delay occurred on the grade east of that station when it was necessary for a yard switcher to help by a push from the rear end. The caboose was Charles Pierce and the conductor was Charles Martin.

"ALL NEUTRALS WILL BECOME INVOLVED"

London, May 12.—"International law has within the past ten months been more completely disregarded, cast down and trampled under foot than I think it ever was within the last four or five centuries," said Viscount Bryce, ex-British Ambassador at Washington on presiding at a lecture on international law here today.

"Apart from the crimes to the innocent population of Belgium, which has been subjected to some treatment that which befell combatants," he continued, "ships not engaged in warlike operations have suddenly been sunk and their crews drowned."

"The technical legal description of piracy was that they were enemies of the human race. They were everybody's enemies alike. They are wild beasts on the sea and a danger not to one particular nation but to all mankind, and neutrals will be just as much ultimately involved as the nations at war."

Viscount Bryce added that the German idea that they were nations was another of the numerous mistakes the Germans had made.

THE MANUFACTURER'S ADVERTISING

A clever advertising man once characterized certain forms of national advertising as throwing money at the map. He pointed out that in their efforts to spread out, these national advertisers were getting everywhere in general and nowhere in particular. Manufacturers and distributors are coming more and more to see that the easy road to sales is through the advertising columns of the daily newspapers. Newspaper advertising hits the spot which it aims at. It costs less and produces more, and it automatically gets the enthusiasm and co-operation of the local dealer. Manufacturers seeking information about newspapers are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

DANIEL WEBSTER HOME IN DANGER

Historic Old Birthplace at Franklin in Path of Forest Fire.

A severe forest fire raged Tuesday in the vicinity of the Daniel Webster birthplace at Franklin, N. H., and there were fears for the historic old building. More than a hundred acres of land were burned over and a large amount of growing timber was ruined. The fire started Monday in what is known as the Emerson lot on Shaw hill where the wood had been cut off a few years ago. Monday night the fire had pretty well subsided but Tuesday forenoon it broke out anew and fanned by a stiff wind spread over a wide area. Most of the territory covered was in the town of Salisbury but in the afternoon it raged on Seales Hill on the western boundary of Franklin.

Two calls for forest fire fighters were sounded on the city alarm and a large crew of men fought the blaze until it was under control in the Seales Hill district.

NEW HAMPSHIRE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY

To School Boards and Superintendents:

The attention of the school boards and superintendents is called to the following statute:

"In all the public schools of the state one session during the week in which Memorial Day falls, or a portion thereof shall be devoted to exercises of a patriotic nature." (Chapter 14, Laws of 1897.)

There have come to be many days of special observance in the school year. For the most part this is well, since each such day enables teachers to impress upon the children and youth of the state with special force some important lesson drawn from the experience of the past or one suggested by the large public problems with which our children in their day must deal. None of these days of school observance approaches in importance Memorial Day.

For of all, it is the one day, with the observance of which teachers and public school officers are charged by law of the land.

Entirely apart from the lesson it can be made to convey, the day brings with it a solemn duty and privilege, the commemoration of the sacrifice of youth and opportunity of life and happiness, for the sake of national integrity, made by the men and women who faced nobly and without flinching and without a selfish evasion, a great historic issue of right and wrong. Cutled upon to choose between conscience and comfort, that generation followed conscience.

I hope that in all our schools at throughout this month of May and throughout the closing days of this school year, teachers everywhere will succeed in bringing home to children some appreciation of the horrors of war in order that they may grasp the meaning of the sacrifice which the day commemorates. Let the children be taught the immeasurable difference between wars of conscience and wars of ambition. Above all, let it be made plain that the daily life of the good and patriotic citizen requires frequent sacrifice of time and treasure and comfort and personal advantage. In time of peace no less than in time of war, to the end that the State and the Nation may continue to be the abode of justice and liberty made under the law.

Henry C. Morrison, Supt. of Public Instruction, Concord, May 10, 1915.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF BERTHA F. BLAKE, WHO PASSED AWAY MAY 12, 1914

Little Bertha she has left us,
Gone yes to her Heavenly home,
She is happy with the angels,
Where sorrow is not known.

Oh, our hearts are strained with sadness,
'Cause we miss her more and more,
We must try and see the gladness
Meeting on the other shore.

On this earth no more we'll see her,
God has called her up above,
She is singing with the angels,
In the land of peace and love.

Fond thoughts may linger round our hearts,
And tears often flow;
But to that sad and lonely grave
Our thoughts will often go.

May the Heavenly wind blow softly
O'er that sweet and hallowed spot;
Mid the changing scenes of life, dear,
You will never be forgot.

"THE ROAD TO HAPPINESS"

William Hodge's latest big play hit "The Road to Happiness," in which he ran for an entire year in Chicago and all this past half year in Boston, is described as being "Shore Acres," "Way Down East," "The Old Homestead," and "The Man from Home."

CURRENT OPINION

President Must Be Supported by All Citizens of the Nation.

President Wilson is measuring up to the standard of Washington in his efforts to keep the United States from becoming enmeshed in the present war. I call upon all citizens of the nation to give him all the support in their power, unsparringly, during this crisis.

Lately I have trembled when I have seen every other nation lose its head because it did not possess divine patience and patriotism necessary in such a crisis. We are the only great power at peace. Pray God we may remain so.

I have felt and known for some time that Almighty God has put in the chair at the White House in Woodrow Wilson a worthy successor to Lincoln and McKinley.—By Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the United States Navy.

all four rolled up into one. Its characters are as quaint as any in the Denman Thompson masterpiece. Its mingled pathos and humor recalls the dramas of James A. Herne. Its plot of the mysterious baby foundling and persecuted heroine recalls "Way Down East" to a degree. And the Americanism, shrewdness and native wit of its central character, young Jim Whittman—a part said to fit Hodge like a glove—is a fit successor to Hodge's own famous characterization of Daniel Voorhees Pike in the South Kensington drama, "The Road to Happiness." Is above all, a path of sunshine and smiles and playfulness can travel its cheerful way through four acts of charming comedy with Hodge at the Portsmouth Theatre tonight.

RIOTS IN ENGLAND BECOMING SERIOUS

(Special to The Herald)

London, May 12.—Anti-German riots that were resumed this morning are growing in violence this afternoon. Pitched battles are being fought between the mobs and the police. Many have been injured and scores arrested.

The special constabulary force organized for service in case of a general strike in London, were called out at noon to protect former subjects of Germany. German residents of East India Dock road concentrated at two houses today and fortified them for defense. These were stormed by the mobs but the Germans succeeded in beating off their assailants. When the police arrived upon the scene they called upon the Germans to surrender, promising protection, but the Germans refused. Believing that the Germans were allowed to remain in the houses the rioting would continue, police reinforcements were called to get them out.

Alarmed by the spread of anti-German riots throughout London and Essex today, Premier Asquith this afternoon called a special meeting of his cabinet to consider plans for dealing with the disturbances. The war office ordered ten thousand troops to various sections of the city. Martial law is imminent. The authorities fear that German houses will be burned tonight.

SAYS UNITED STATES SHOULD PREPARE DEFENSES

Hartford May 12.—Hon Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts speaking before the Society of Colonial Wars last evening, said that the President "may be trusted to face the grave situation with Germany with intelligence and patriotism, and in the difficult task he will have the support of his countrymen without distinction of party."

"In the meantime," he continued, "the country has a lesson to ponder over. Our isolation which has been a potent defense has been lessened by the new method of warfare and by the Panama Canal, which has already changed our military problem. In the face of what is being done in Europe we can rely little on international law in the present temper of the world. With all Europe ablaze, with Asia only now on the verge of war and with the world apparently given over to brutal savagery, our country should be put in a condition effectively to defend itself."

USED REVOLVER TO FRIGHTEN WOMEN

Frank H. Finerty, Formerly of This City, Wanted in Dover.

Late Monday afternoon Frank H. Finerty who for some time has been living around Dover and Portsmouth, created quite a sensation in Dover by entering the home of Miss Florence Bassett, 254 Central avenue, carrying in his hand a loaded revolver and frightening Miss Bassett's mother so that she ran screaming from the house, while her daughter ran up stairs to get out of the way of the intruder.

It seems that Finerty has been keeping company with Miss Bassett for some little time much to her family's objection. Saturday night they met and Finerty and Miss Bassett are said to have quarreled. Yesterday he crawled through a cellar window, came up the cellar stairs and appeared before Mrs. Bassett. Not a word was said by Finerty, but he ran out of the house and jumped down a steep embankment at the rear of the Bassett home and threw his revolver through a rear window of a house on Payne street.

The police were notified but have been unable to find any trace of Finerty. Finerty came from Portland originally and is reported to be a married man, having a wife and child in that city. His occupation he is a floor layer.

WILL MAKE OFFER TO PURCHASE OF PAPER PLANT

Mr. W. W. Blair of Boston who has been looking this territory over to find a site satisfactory for the manufacture of glass and who has had some interviews with the Portsmouth Board of Trade was a visitor in this city Tuesday. Mr. Blair attended the sale of the Colonial Paper Plant at Freeport Point which was sold to the Equitable Trust Company of New York for $100,000.00. United States Marshal Charles O'Neal conducted the sale. There were no other bidders.

Mr. Blair stated that the plant in many respects was admirably suited for his business and that he would undoubtedly make an offer to the trust company for the property. He was particularly impressed with the big building, as much room is required in the manufacture of glass and the building is so arranged as to be almost as well fitted as though built for this particular purpose.

NEW TRIAL OF EMERY WILL CASE OPENED

Children of Late Judge Samuel W. Emery Resume Fight to Break Father's Last Testament.

(Special to The Herald)
Boston, May 12.—The second trial of the famous Emery will case opened today in the Suffolk superior court before Judge White and a jury. The case in this court followed the refusal of Judge Bradley of the supreme court to grant a motion to have the second trial heard before a single justice without a jury.

An court today was Mrs. Mary E. B. Emery, the second wife of the late Judge Samuel J. Emery to who his estate of $60,000 was left; the testators, three children of the judge, Samuel W. Emery of Portsmouth, Marguerite L. Emery, also of Portsmouth and Miss Mabel H. Weeks of Amesbury, Mass. The three children were cut off with one dollar each and are contesting the will. In the court this morning also was Mrs. Lydia J. Emery, the first wife of the late judge who she divorced.

The first witness called was Bartholomew Flynn of Portsmouth who testified to the signing of the will.

RAILROAD MEN IN SESSION AT DOVER

Seventh Annual Convention
Opens for Four Days' Conference.

The seventh annual convention of the New England division of the Brotherhood of Railroad Station Employees opened for four days session at Dover, Tuesday at A. O. H. Hall, 247 delegates being present.

Grand President P. J. Coyle of Boston reported a working schedule is yet to be established with the New Haven system, the Boston and Albany and the Boston Terminal Company. President Coyle expected an agreement with the Boston and Albany would be reached soon. He said the general board of adjustment on the Boston and Maine system has presented to the management a schedule of working conditions, together with a wage request, which is now under consideration. A schedule of working conditions and a wage request have also been submitted to the Maine Central.

President Coyle urged consolidation with the Brotherhood of Railroad Freight Handlers with the view of forming a new organization and affiliating with the American Federation of Labor.

Tuesday evening in the City Banquet hall in banquet was served for about 300. C. E. Caswell of South Berwick, Me., was toastmaster. Mayor George D. Barrett welcomed the delegates. The other speakers were Grand President Coyle, Councilman Frederick E. Small of Rochester, Ex-Mayor Haven Doe of Skenesworth, City Clerk Fred E. Quimby and County Solicitor Albert P. Sherry of Dover; Justus A. Emery, city solicitor of Rochester; Stanley G. Perry, George Walsh, grand directors, of Boston and W. J. Rogers of Portland.

CASE SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Action Brought by Hampton Falls Woman for Injuries to Child.

A case was started in superior court at Exeter Tuesday which promised to be of much interest locally, as it was an action against the Exeter, Hampton and Amesbury Street railroad, which operates between Exeter and Hampton Beach.

It was brought by Mrs. Hattie M.

Copeland of Hampton Falls for damage for personal injuries to her two year old child, Ward, who was struck by an electric car while playing on the track near its home on the afternoon of July 31. The allegations were that the road was negligent in operating the car. The case was commenced and the jury drawn, the foreman being Benjamin Lowe of Exeter and the counsel William H. Steeper of Exeter for the plaintiff and John Scammon of Exeter for the defendant.

After the opening the counsel held a conference and both parties came to an agreement, it being settled on private terms. The jury was discharged, and as there were no more cases for the day, court adjourned until this morning at 9.30 o'clock.

DAILY CABLE LETTER

Paris, May 11.—I owe to you the attainment of the aim towards which all my efforts, all my energy have been strained for forty-four years past—revenge for 1870.

This message from the order of the day in which General Maunoury thanked his troops for their victorious participation in the battle of the Marne, explains the whole life of the veteran upon whom King George has conferred the honor of St. Michael and St. George.

In a war which has clamored for the qualities of youth, a general upon the retired list, 67 years of age, might well have imagined that his hopes of active employment were vain, that the most he could expect would be some post as organizer in the depots well to the rear of the zone of operations.

General Maunoury was called upon from his farming and his flowers in August, and came to Paris in the hope of obtaining some command in the field where he would be able to work directly for the "revenge."

At the outset of the war all the general officers belonged to the active army, and for a time General Maunoury had to content himself with the useful, if less satisfying, work of inspecting depots and the organization of reserves.

It was long however before he was given the command of any army formed at Verdun, at the head of which he took part in the early and disastrous fighting along the Belgian frontier. During the retreat he fought a series of actions with the greatest brilliance while at the same time reorganization and completing his force.

Just before the time when as General Joffre phrased it "the hour had come to where you had rather die than give away," General Maunoury was ordered to Paris to undertake the task of organizing and commanding the army destined in the event of things turning out badly on the Marne, to act as the army of defence of Paris.

The appointment was flattering; but to General Maunoury it aroused the many cruel memories, for he had begun his military career in the army of Paris in 1870, and as artillery officer, had known the bitterness of defeat in the series of battles which were fought in the neighborhood of the capital.

The bitterness he had wiped out in signal manner to the head of the Army of Paris which at the critical moment swung on to the German right along the Oureq, and withstanding the most terrible battering for days, finally precipitated the general retreat of the enemy back to the Alsace.

General Maunoury comes of a family which has long been noted for its service to the countryside of the Loire et Cher and to the greater country, France. Perhaps his most striking characteristic is his quiet modesty, his unassuming nature.

The earlier years of his career were spent in the discussions which arose out of the urgent necessity for artillery reorganization following upon the defeats revealed in 1870. The qualities he showed led to his appointment as Professor of Artillery course at St. Cyr where he remained for four years.

His intellectual activity was such however, that the mysteries even of the most technical arm did not satisfy it. He studied tactics at the Ecole Supérieure de Guerre of which at a later date he became instructor. He also instructed the riding at Montlambert.

It would seem indeed that he had deliberately set himself out to become the ideal corps commander by profound study of every arm of the service. He commanded the 15th and later the 20th corps and in 1910 became member of the supreme council of war, became finally nominated to the post of honor and retirement, the military governorship of Paris.

General Maunoury has spent all of his service in the training of himself and others and has no opportunities of winning distinction by active service in the colonies. All his life he abstained from seeking the aid of politics to further his advancement. He is the type of the officer bred of the desire for revenge. For that he has worked; it was that idea which gave to his teachings their strength; it was that idea which gave to his spirit the force required of it during the battle of the Oureq.

It was at Alsace that I had the honor of visiting him. Youthful in mind and body he might pass for 50 or 60. To give him 65 would appear almost libellous. At luncheon we talked of many things and in the conversation it was clear that the general regarded the extermination of Prussian militarism as the great cause of a great crusade.

Perhaps Mr. Hodges' greatest claim to charm lies in his sincerity.

CLAIM HOMES IN PORTSMOUTH

Three Young Men Arrested by Police of Revere.

The Portsmouth police were called early this morning by the police of Revere who notified Captain Burke that they had three young men under arrest for safe keeping who they picked up during the night and who claimed to belong in this city. They gave the following names and addresses: Archie Brown, aged 21, said he lived at 35 Washington street; Nellie Miller, aged 18, claimed he had a residence at No. 61 Daniel street; and the third, Wesley Bush, gave No. 32 Water street as his place of abode. The last named carried a revolver and plenty of ammunition. They told the Revere officers they were in search of work. The local police this forenoon did considerable work in attempting to connect them with the addresses which they gave the Revere police but none of them are known at the several places mentioned. They evidently know this city pretty well, but handed out phony names and addresses to the Massachusetts police.

KING'S DAUGHTERS TENDER RECEPTION

Golden Rule and Daily Circles Entertained at North Church Parish House.

Inasmuch Circle of King's Daughters of the North Congregational church tendered an informal reception to the Golden Rule Circle of the Middle Street Baptist church and the Daily Circle of New Castle at the North church parish house from 3 to 5 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

There was a large attendance and the affair was a most enjoyable one. At the entrance the leader, Mrs. James R. Connell, Mrs. Daniel H. Trefethen, vice leader and the entertainment committee, Mrs. Arthur G. Brewster, chairman; Mrs. Fred Butler and Mrs. Robert Lloyd gave the guests a week-end greeting as they entered.

The following program was then rendered: Address of welcome—Mrs. James R. Connell, leader of Inasmuch Circle of King's Daughters.

Prayer—Miss Mrs. M. St. Clair.

Reading—Miss Arline Perkins of Ogunquit.

Vocal solo—Mrs. Charles A. Ladger.

Several numbers of each were rendered.

This delightful program was followed by a social hour and general reception. The officers and the entertainment committee received the guests and made them feel at home.

In the Junior rooms, two tables were prettily arranged. At one table jonquils and asparagus ferns adorned the table, and beautiful embroidered, linens, cut glass and silver added to the prettiness of the affair. Mrs. James A. Borthwick and Mrs. Fred Watkins presided at this table and poured tea and hot chocolate.

At another table Mrs. Harry Washburn and Mrs. Clarence Sherwood, poured tea and hot chocolate. This table was prettily decorated with yellow forsythia blossoms and dainty china, cut glass, etc.

Refreshments of iced, assorted cake, fancy crackers, home made confections, tea and hot chocolate were served.

In the kitchen, Miss Grace Conner, Mrs. Samuel Hamilton and Mrs. John G. Sweetser were in charge.

The corps of servers included Mrs. Willis E. Underhill, Mrs. Frank Clarke, Mrs. Harry Philbrook, Mrs. John Gilman, Mrs. Morgan Dada, Mrs. John G. Sweetser, Mrs. Marion Wright, Mrs. William Anderson.

Mrs. H. H. Dutton was chairman of the hospitality committee.

A most enjoyable evening was passed by all present.

N. H. LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

Of unusual interest will be the annual meeting of the New Hampshire Library Association on Thursday because it will bring the librarians of the state together in the Carpenter Memorial Library, Manchester for the first time. It will be an all-day session and will be full of interesting things, not only to librarians, but also to the general public, which is invited to attend the meetings and examine the exhibits.

The library is admirably adapted for a meeting of this kind, which will be the first of the association's gatherings to take place there.

There will be a good exhibit by several publishers in the room adjoining the lecture hall, which will be of general interest, and another attractive feature will be an exhibition of Copley prints.

The meeting will open at 10.30 o'clock with an address of welcome by Frank P. Carpenter, the donor of the building, and one of the library trustees. This will be followed by the business of the association and a report of the address given by Miss Lottie E. Stearns, at the annual meeting of the New Hampshire State Federation of Women's Clubs by Miss Grace Blanchard, librarian at Concord.

At 11.30 o'clock there will be an inspection of the library.

The afternoon session will open at 2.30 o'clock and the principal address will be by Miss Jennie M. DeMerritt of Dover, retiring president of the New Hampshire State Federation of Women's Clubs, who will speak of points of common interest between the library association and the state federation. She will be followed by Mrs. Jesse G. MacMurphy of Derry who will give personal reminiscences of authors.

At 6.30 o'clock dinner will be served at the Chinese restaurant on Hanover street and there will be after dinner speaking. Miss Addie R. Towne of Franklin to speak, while all are supposed to contribute to the library fund.

GERMANY WOULD FORFEIT $100,000,000 IN SHIPS

Immense Property in American Waters May be Held to Secure Claims of Americans for Indemnity

Boston, May 11.—Taking a look into the uncertain and troubled future of the United States' relations with Germany, a Boston business man, whose judgment ordinarily may be accepted as sound and typical of New England ways of thinking, yesterday advanced a thought that probably has suggested itself in the past few days to other Americans.

"Whatever we do to bring Germany to account for her assaults upon Americans," he said, "we have in our ports enough German property to secure us of proper indemnity for our losses. I mean the German inter-oceanic liners. Why should we give asylum to nearly $100,000,000 worth of German ships hiding in our ports to keep out of the clutches of the British navy, and not collect damages through them for the losses of American lives and American property at the hands of the Germans?"

In speaking further on the subject this man made the statement that Germany is already at war with the United States.

"The sinking of the Lusitania, an American ship, by a German torpedo, and the dropping of bombs on the cutting of an American ship by a German aircraft were acts of war," he said. "No self-respecting Nation could consider them anything else. Germany evidently intended them as such."

"Technically the destruction of the Lusitania was not a specific act of war on us though it was a crime against humanity, and under international law, but it brought to a head the situation created by the other acts."

"Now, being confronted with insult and gross injury, what are we going to do about it? If we are going to collect damages, how can we get about it? Simplest thing in the world! Seize those German ships. You would see Germany brought to book in short order. She would then have to quit letting women and children, and other defenseless travelers, or come out into the open with her declaration of war. But that wouldn't bring back her ships, which would be in our hands."

Big Fleet in Our Hands.

Whatever the merits of this man's views, and whatever the turns the diplomatic negotiators may take, in the matter of this Government's claims for reparation against Germany, the presence of a fleet of 57 German and 11 Austrian steamships in American ports is accepted by most Bostonians as an element in the situation that should not be lost sight of.

These ships remain here for safety. Two are war vessels that recently fled to American ports to escape the British. They are the auxiliary cruisers Prinz Eitel Friedrich and Kronprinz Wilhelm. Each arrived at Newport News when at the end of her resources, after a commerce-destroying cruise in various waters, in which great damage was done British shipping. The Eitel had committed an act of war upon the United States by sinking an American vessel. For this act Germany agreed to make monetary reparation.

Neither ship had transgressed the laws of humanity, and for that reason they were given prompt asylum within the safety of an American port. Their welcome even went so far as to embrace the privilege of docking and repairing of underwater surfaces, an act against which the British Ambassador protested as improper, inasmuch as it increased the speed of the ship, and thereby increased her power of resistance to an enemy.

This point was smoothed over through the voluntary internment of the ships; but the docking remained as evidence of the Government's purpose to treat the fugitive Germans liberally.

In the event of war between Germany and the United States these two ships would be seized immediately, and there could be no ground for protest against such a course. The other ships, although privately owned, would no less surely fall into American hands, as all rules of war permit a belligerent Nation to capture the shipping of its enemy wherever found.

Unprecedented Prize List

Thus the United States would possess itself at a stroke of a list of prizes unprecedented in the history of the world. The list would be headed by the giant Vaterland, the largest ship that crossed the Atlantic before the world-war began. Her value is about $10,000,000.

Since the opening day of the war the Vaterland has lain in peace and security at a wharf in Hoboken, opposite New York City, amidst a fleet of other idle German ships. On holidays and Sundays, and occasionally when some purely German reason arises, these ships display their newest flags.

How long these foreign flags will continue to be considered friendly flags is, in the opinion of some close observers of public sentiment, a grave question. The ideas of the Boston business man quoted are in consonance with some of the things that are being said in New York about these ships flying those flags.

Boston has also a fleet of interned German ships. It is not large, but it is headed by three valuable vessels—the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, the Amerika and the Cincinnati, something more than $10,000,000 at a reasonable estimate.

In American waters there are sixty-seven ships interned. Ten of them are Austrian vessels and the remainder German. There are thirty at New York, seven at Boston, four at Baltimore, three at Philadelphia, four at New Orleans, two, Galveston; two, San Francisco; eight at Honolulu; four at Norfolk, and one each at Hilo, Savannah, and Seattle. The total tonnage of those interned is 548,871 tons.

A REAL LIVE ONE FROM UP-RIVER

The original fish story of Jonah and the whale was considered pretty good in its time but for all-round every day hook and line stories, we take our lads to the men who make their living on the banks of the Piscataqua river around Elliot Neck, Bolling Neck and Sculpin Point. The latest yarn from the up-river town manufactured for the benefit of the cracker barrel and soap-box crew that convenes nightly at the corner grocery is the chicken menu for tonight. He comes forward with a story of missing chickens and is willing to swear under oath that six juvenile baryard fowls were discovered by him mixed up in the digestive organs of a salt water horn-pout, better known as a sculpin.

At a special meeting of the Annual Club held today it was unanimously voted to present him with a certificate making him an honorary member for life. All other business of the hook, line, net and spear of the town who have brought fame to the village with catches of ten pound lobsters, 65-pound cod, flat fish as big as the bottom of a wash boiler, clams, the shells of which are used for snow shovels in the winter; and eels that would make a hon-constrictor look like a seaworm, have retired to the lair and jolly uncut timbers after courteously handling the blue ribbon to this apostle of truth and veracity.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

LAW SUIT OVER $2.65 WHEN FRIM IS DISSOLVED.

A real one developed yesterday when it became known that two men, who have been engaged as partners in a little business in this neighborhood for some years, dissolved their firm because of the fact that one was certain that the other was attempting to hand him the double cross. Man number 2 wasn't looking for any such drawbacks and wasn't at all backward in telling number 1 about it.

One word led to another and the second to two more. These were followed by several and within a short time each was talking and neither doing any listening. After a while they came to the decision that the only thing that they could agree on was to disagree and an attempt was made to balance up the accounts.

Bids were asked for in the accounting department and when the ledger was balanced it further developed that Number One was shy in his ante by about $2.65. He claimed that that sum was due him for a little extra work that he had put into the business and refused to jar loose when requested.

The account has been placed in the hands of a lawyer and the entire township is now awaiting the outcome.

PUTS NEW WHEELS ON DAMAGED AUTO

CAR RETURNED TO HAVERHILL UNDER ITS OWN POWER

Patrick McMann of Dover and party, and an auto from Haverhill were in collision on the road between Hampton and Haverhill early yesterday morning and although both cars were damaged to a considerable extent none of the passengers were hurt. Mr. McMann was coming in this direction returning to Dover and a big Oakland touring car returning from Hampton, when the accident happened on the Hampton Falls turn pike. The Haverhill car had three of its wheels completely ruined and the steering gear of Mr. McMann's car was crippled to such an extent that it had to be towed to Haverhill for repairs.

A new feature in the repairing of autos was worked on the damaged Haverhill car. A telephone message to a garage brought a "trouble" car to the scene of the smash-up with the necessary three wheels, the car jacked up and the wheels put on allowing the auto to finish the trip to Haverhill under its own power.

CHAUFFEUR APPLIED FOR NIGHTS' LODGING

MANY ACCIDENTS HAPPENED TO CAR JUST BOUGHT IN BOSTON

The Princess and the Prince of hard luck, together with the driver of their chariot, passed through this city last evening, only to return and make this their resting place for a few hours. The party were on their way from Boston to Portland by auto and they had suffered more trouble than should ordinarily be the share of most people during their entire lives.

The trip was begun in an auto purchased Tuesday afternoon in Boston, and everything was thought to be in good working order when this mother and her son left there. The car was being driven by a chauffeur who had driven for them for some time. Shortly after leaving Boston they had a blow-out and repairs were necessary before the journey could be continued. Only a few miles had been passed when a similar accident occurred to another tire. This sort of accident was repeated several times before Portsmouth was reached and their funds were down to the limit. In all $28.00 had been expended at different garages along the route.

About four miles up the state road on the other side of the river after Portsmouth was safely passed another blow-out took place and the chauffeur walked back to the nearest garage to secure another tire. There was no tire to be had that would fit the wheel and they were held up until sometime today. The woman secured lodgings at a farmhouse along the way for the night and her son came to Portsmouth and hired a room. By that time every cent of the reserve fund had been used and there was nothing left for the chauffeur to do but to apply at the police station for lodging for the night.

SHARP BATTLE IN HAYTI

Cape Haitien May 11.—A battle occurred today on the heights near Cape Haitien between Government troops and forces of Dr. Rosalvo Bobo leader of the revolutionary movement against President Guillaume. The Government forces were victorious. Dr. Bobo came into Cape Haitien May 7 and held the city until Government troops were brought up as well as the surrounding district. The rebels still occupy Cape Haitien itself but were driven back in disorder to the gates of the city. Their guns were captured. Government gunboats threaten the rebel positions in Cape Haitien.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—dark, bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you simply percent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, but always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Mitylene, May 10.—Of the many problems which beset Greece, that of the refugees from Asia Minor and Thrace is not the least pressing. Altogether there are nearly 450,000 of these unfortunate people in Greece and the formerly Turkish islands. Estimating the population of the country at 6,000,000 it will be seen that practically one person in fifteen is a refugee. These poor people are of all classes and it is no uncommon thing to see a child or even a birth reduced to rags and the acceptance of the same charity as the poor.

Probably more than any other part of Greek territory these islands show the sad effect of the advent of these uninvited and it must be admitted scarcely welcome guests. Still they have to be fed, and Mitylene does its best.

The present war has affected the trade of the island considerably and within the spending capacity of the people, quite apart from the fact that the state funds find it difficult enough to provide this surplus population with their fixed allowance of eight cents per head daily, with a certain reduction for each person in the case of a family.

When it is remembered that owing to heavy taxation this country is very expensive to live in, it will be seen that much indeed is left to "private charity."

In Mitylene alone the normal population of 20,000 has been almost doubled by the arrival of these ragged peasants, and there are about 70,000 more in the rest of the island, the inhabitants of the whole of Lesbos numbering some 140,000 in ordinary times.

Some of these people, with a certain poetic justice, are quartered in the houses vacated by Turks who have returned to the country of their origin during the last few troubled years, but these houses are quite inadequate, and in many cases ten people are crowded in one room.

In all parts of the interior of Asia Minor and the clearly visible coastline opposite they have voyaged to these islands and the mainland of Greece for months past. Beggars through the streets, no more road-making or other manual work being available, and send their children into the poor eating houses and inns of the place.

Along the country roads they stream, dependent largely on the generosity of the passer-by, and resting now and then under the olive groves of the island, "where burning Sappho loved and sang."

In the Turkish town of Alvaly there are still about 20,000 Christians. The Turks seem to be trying to starve them out by preventing the food being sent to them. Nobody can leave the town to look after property on the outskirts without grave danger of being killed.

A curious and in many respects typical refugee's story is that of Oliver Clarke, who reached here a few weeks ago. Clarke, born in Smyrna, is of English parentage and a British subject, but nobody who saw the bearded, half-broken man who returned to his wife and three daughters after months of absence would have taken him for anything but a Turk. Indeed, it was merely on account of his Oriental dress and knowledge of Turkish that Clarke was suffered to exist on a beggary wage at Pergamos—the only Christian for miles around. He is a blacksmith by trade, and, doubtless, proved useful to his masters in the state of practical slavery to which he was subjected.

The story he gave me is vouched for by M. Elipoulos, formerly British Vice-Consul at Alvaly himself, a refugee who has the cause of his compatriots much at heart.

Clarke was sent to Pergamos in a cart together with a Frenchman and his mother. They were escorted by the Governor of Dikely and gendarmes. The latter robbed Clarke and the Gov-

U. S. WAR FLEET READY FOR PARADE

New York, May 11.—The battleship Rhode Island, last of the big fleet assembled in the Hudson River, arrived yesterday and anchored far up the river with the other ships of the Atlantic fleet which President Wilson will review on May 17. The Rhode Island was detained by experimental gun practice in Chesapeake Bay, which was completed last Saturday.

Rumors that the review had been abandoned and that President Wilson and Secretary Daniels would not come to New York were dispelled when an official statement came from Secretary of the Navy Daniels from Philadelphia that no change in plans for the review had been made or were in contemplation.

Thousands of visitors visited the ships yesterday. It was estimated that fifty per cent of the enlisted men were on 24-hour shore leave, while many more were on shorter leave. Several thousand sailors enjoyed the courtesy of New York theatre managers, who supplied them with free tickets through the mayor's committee on entertainment. Cornelius Vanderbilt was relieved of the active duties of the chairmanship of the Citizens' Committee for the Entertainment of the Fleet at his own request after he had abandoned hope that his brother, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, had been saved when the Lusitania sank last Friday.

error relieved him of his cigarette lighter remarking that it was "too good for a gendarme."

On arrival at Pergamos the Governor of that place demanded that the French lady should sell all she possessed to pay all debts which he invented for the purpose before she and her son would be allowed to go. Finally the couple were permitted to leave for Smyrna after the lady had "sold" her valuable olive crops—for $125.00. Clarke was brought back to Dikely where he continued to drudge for a pittance. Eventually, he escaped to Smyrna wearing his fez. Only his Turkish disguise which had enabled him to live there many months provided him with a means of escape.

DAILY SPORT LETTER

New York May 12.—Enillo Palmero the Cuban pitcher who was released by the New York Giants to the Rochester N. Y. Internationals feels that he has a just cause for howling about the treatment accorded to him by the Giant management.

The facts in the Palmero case as recited by Palmero are these: Palmero paid the Pullman fare and meals on trains from New Orleans to Marlin Tex. out of his own pocket. That amounted to something like $9.00. He was told that he would be reimbursed.

McGraw sent him to New York several days before the season opened. Palmero had to stay at a New York hotel and pay all expenses. These amounted to about $15.00. Again he was told he would be reimbursed.

Two days after the 1914 season opened Palmero was notified that he had been let out to the Rochester N. Y. club which didn't open its season until April 25th.

On May 2nd Palmero claims he got a check from the New York Giants which called for something like $5.30 with a letter saying that "this is in full payment on all the obligations of the New York club to you."

Palmero it will be noted paid out something like $24.00 from his own pocket and he got back only a trifle over $5.00.

"But that isn't the worst of it," says Palmero. "My contract with the Giants read that my salary was to begin when the 1914 playing season opened. I was really with the club and I should have been allowed Acting Mayor McAneny announced that he had designated W. Butler Duncan as vice chairman of the committee and Mr. Duncan will represent the committee in all public appearances.

Announcement was made of a boat race which will take place on the Hudson next Monday night in which sixteen boat crews of the various battleships will participate. The prize will be a cup given by Admiral Fletcher.

After the race a water carnival will be staged by the torpedo flotilla. The fleet and the river will be illuminated.

It was estimated that 6000 men of the fleet witnessed the ball game between the New York and Boston American League clubs at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon.

The sailors' entertainment committee announced that the Brooklyn National team had arranged to accommodate 6000 sailors daily this week, with the exception of Saturday, when 3000 sailors will be given tickets for the game at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn.

Speakers along the river yesterday afternoon were given a thrill when Lieutenant C. M. Cooke in command of the submarine B-2, jumped overboard from his vessel and rescued two fans of seventeen who had overboarded a canoe in which they were rowing along the sides of the vessels of the fleet.

ed at least $17.00 for that. Furthermore I don't see why I should be made to suffer through loss of wages between the time I was let out to Rochester and the time when its season opened.

"From April 10th to April 25th I was idle. That was not through any fault of mine. The Rochester club of course is not obligated to me for the salary between the time I was let out and the time that it opened the season but I feel that the New York club is. I lost practically all my pay for the month of April although I was ready and willing to work and although my contract with the Giants as far as I could figure it out made it specific that I would be paid."

McGraw let out Palmero—with a string attached. If the Cuban makes good McGraw can recall him. The Havana boy went up against the Jersey City Club in his first game of the year and shut it out allowing only two hits. He seemed to have everything that a real pitcher needs and showed the same sort of form that he displayed during the winter season in Havana when he was the pitching sensation of the island.

If McGraw's regular staff doesn't show up a little better later on McGraw may work the recall on Palmero as the Giants seem to be in need of a real pitcher such as Palmero had showed himself to be. But Palmero peevish at McGraw may balk at the transfer. He has told his Cuban friends that he will linger with the Rochester club until the end of the present season and then browse around for a Federal League job.

"I was offered a Federal League job during the winter," said Palmero. "It was at a salary higher than McGraw offered but I was advised by my friends to take a job with the Giants even though their offer was less. I was assured by McGraw that he would give me every possible chance to make good. I tried my best down in the Marlin camp; I think I showed them something that should have won a job for me as a regular. But I was sent to the minors."

"The kind of treatment that McGraw has handed me has soured me for all time on the Giants. The fact that I was sent back for only a trifle over $5.00 when I already had to pay out nearly $24.00 in expenses was bad enough but to be allowed nothing for salary is the limit."

ANNUAL MEETING OPENS THURSDAY

NEW HAMPSHIRE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION TO MEET AT MANCHESTER.

One of the most important literary gatherings of meetings directly connected with educational work is the annual meeting of the New Hampshire Library Association which takes place Thursday, May 13, at the Carpenter Memorial Library, Manchester.

The general program announced for this meeting, the sessions of which are open to the public, is as follows:

10.30 a. m., address of welcome, the Hon. Frank P. Carpenter, trustee and donor of the building; business; report of address given by Miss Lillie E. Stearns at annual meeting of the New Hampshire State Federation of Women's Clubs, Miss Grace Blanchard, librarian at Concord.

11.30 a. m., inspection of Carpenter Memorial Library.

2.30 p. m., "Some Points of Common Interest between the N. H. L. A., and the State Federation of Women's Clubs" Miss Jennie M. DeMerritt of Dover retiring president of N. H. Federation of Clubs; Personal reminiscences of a few authors, Mrs. Jesse G. MacMurphy of Derry.

5.30 p. m., dinner at the Chinese restaurant. After dinner, address, "High Price of Poetry," Miss Adelle E. Towne of Franklin.

The present officers of the association are: President, Mrs. Barron Shipley of Franklin; first vice-president, Miss Mary L. Saxton of Keene; second vice president, Miss Edith Gaykin of Derry; secretary, Miss Caroline B. Clement of Manchester, and treasurer, Miss Annabel C. Scrimbe of Milford.

The following notes of general interest are appended to the program: Both sessions of the meeting will be held in the lecture hall of the Carpenter Memorial Library, which is situated on Pine street, facing Concord common and all interested are cordially invited to attend the sessions.

The dinner is arranged for the purpose of closer unity and good fellowship among the members of the library profession in New Hampshire, and a large attendance is desired. If each person will come prepared to relate some amusing incident pertaining to library work it will add to the pleasure of the evening.

OLD HOME ANNUAL MEETING JUNE 1

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Old Home Week Association will take place at Concord, Tuesday, June 1, in the rooms of the commissioner of agriculture in the state house.

The call to the meeting to be sent out shortly addressed to the men and women in New Hampshire interested in Old Home Week, and is intended not only for those who attended the last annual meeting but for all who have the Old Home idea at heart.

The meeting will begin at 11 o'clock, the secretary's report will be read, officers will be elected, and all the business done at these meetings will be transacted. The 1915 observance will be discussed.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Sufferers from Tuberculosis often think that medicine will not help them. They have a notion that good food and rest will restore health, but more is often needed. Many have been restored to health by Beckman's Alkaline. Read this.

"Gentlemen—Through your instructions I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1914, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (badly). I was found. In February, 1915, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. I weighed 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching home alive. On July 14, 1915, I began taking Beckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Each day I took regular doses, and in a few days I was able to do any kind of work about my grain elevator." (Abbreviated).

(Abbreviated) ALKALINE BECKMAN'S Alkaline is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and up-building the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small bottles $1.00; regular size, by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.

TUGBOAT MAKES RECORD TRIP

Piscataqua Shows Some Speed in Round Trip to Boston.

The tug Piscataqua of the Piscataqua Navigation Company made a record on Tuesday night which Capt.
Thirley Holt and the crew have reason to be proud of. The tug left here for Boston at 5 p. m., arriving there at 11.20. She left Boston at 12.30 and reached this city at 8.10 this morning towing the barge Hampton, with a large cable weighing 27 tons, for the Rockingham County Light and Power Company. Capt. Holt states that he never saw a better night for the trip and the sailing was as smooth as it would be on a pond.
The cable will be stretched across
Great Bay by the light company.

NAVY YARD NEWS

In Military Department

Chief Boatswain Frank Carragher who reported for duty on Tuesday at the yard, has been assigned to the military department.

Board Starts Work

The official board of inspection arrived at the yard today and began its duties on the cruiser Montana.

Court Martial Duty

Lieut. Roland Hoyt, U. S. M. C., is temporarily acting as a member of the court martial board which is in session today.

Rooters Will Be There

A large number of the enlisted men especially among the marine guard will come over from the yard this afternoon to cheer on the prison marines who open the season of the Sunset League at the playgrounds with the
P. A. C. as opponents.

Bishop Atwood

Secretary Daniels has designated the Rev. Julius W. Atwood, Episcopal Bishop of Arizona to offer the benediction at the launching of the dreadnought Arizona at the New York yard June 19.

Nashville Moving About

The gunboat Nashville attached to the local yard as home port, now at Guantanamo Bay, has been ordered to proceed to Santiago de Cuba, Port au Prince and then to Progreso, Mexico.

No Change Made

Announcement has been received at the Mare Island navy yard that no change will be made in the Civil Service rules for the benefit of the men who were employed at the yard when the eligible lists were exhausted and who afterwards neglected to register.
Had they done so they would have had steady jobs. As it is they have been replaced by men who registered with the Board of Labor.

Two for Foundry.

One moulder's helper and one casting cleaner were added to the force in the foundry today.

Still Hoping

The Public Works branch of the Industrial Department are still hoping that the department will soon replace the steam fire engine of the yard with gasoline apparatus.

CIRCUS COMING.

La Tenas Company Will Likely Play on Date in June.

La Tenas' Circus, the only show of that kind exhibiting in this city last year, will pitch its tents here again this summer. The advance car of the company will shortly arrive here for the preliminary work of bill posting, etc. The show is a three ring affair and is a good performance.

Handcuffs on his bicycle.

Somebody believes that the bicycle owned by a prominent member of the P. A. C. will not stand without hitching. On Tuesday he did not do much riding owing to the fact that the bike was anchored all day at the rooms of the club by a pair of handcuffs locking the rear wheel. The owner believes that the local Sherlock man will locate the unauthorized guarding of the bike, not for the purpose of having a jail sentence imposed but simply to get his proper address in order that he may be rewarded with an appropriate card of thanks.

Organ recital draws large attendance.

The auditorium of the Court Street

PORTSMOUTH NAVY YARD BID WAS HIGH

Was the Only One Sent From the East for the Lighthouse Tender Cedar.

The Portsmouth navy yard appears to be the third highest in the bids that were recently submitted to the Bureau of Lighthouses at Washington for the construction of the steam lighthouse tender Cedar. It will be also seen that the bid from Portsmouth was the only one received from the eastern section of the country. All the others were sent in from the west coast. The abstract of the bids are as follows:
Portsmouth Navy Yard, $280,294; 15
months.
Gas Engine & Power Co. and Chas.
L. Seabury Company, $276,000.
Seattle Construction and Dry Dock
Co., $290,000; 10 months.
Mare Island Navy Yard, California,
$249,396; 10 months.
Bremerton Navy Yard, Puget Sound,
Washington, $248,579.
Anderson Steamboat Company Seattle, $258,300.
Union Iron Works, San Francisco,
$248,250; 10 months.
Craig Shipbuilding Co., Long Beach,
Cal., $234,500; 12 months.
United Engineering Works, San Francisco, Cal., $277,538.
The bid of the Craig Company has been accepted and the contract will be awarded in a short time.

recently purchased through the steady efforts and hard work of the men of the Onward Class.

Ernest L. Mchaffey, of Boston, presided at the organ, and Miss Bernice Keatch, also of Boston, assisted as soloist. The musical program carried out was a very fine one indeed, and greatly appreciated by the large audience.

The organ is a fine instrument, and the church is to be congratulated upon its good fortune in securing it as a gift.
